2.2 Registry Online Conventions

The Registry Online system follows a number of simple conventions to ensure consistency and ease of use across the system.

2.2.1 Required Fields

When a field requires data to be supplied, the field label is marked with a red asterisk (*). If you attempt to submit a form without the required fields being populated, you will immediately see an error message.

The following is an example of a required field and the associated error message when no data is supplied.

Address Line 1 *

Address Line 1 is required.

2.2.2 Workflows

When a particular action is to be completed over a number of pages, a Workflow is shown at the top of the page to visually guide you through the steps.

The workflow shows the current step by highlighting the step number. As you progress through the workflow, you can click on a previous step to jump back to that page.

2.2.3 Sorting, Searching and Paging

Registry Online displays most information in a table view, these tables share consistent sorting, searching and paging functions. The following examples show the Forms In Progress view.

Forms In Progress

All Claims and Final Notices which are available to be modified.

Forms In Progress

Paging – By default the list will show 10 records per page, you can change the number of records displayed by selecting a different number from the records per page drop down.

You can also use the page numbers, or the Previous / Next links to access a specific page of results.

2.2.4 System Messages

Registry Online provides a number of system messages at the top of the screen to either confirm the successful completion of a task or to show error messages. An example of both a Success and Error message are displayed below.

Success - Account details updated successfully.

Error - Final Notice requires at least one Sender. Final Notice requires at least one Recipient.

2.2.5 Tooltips

Each data entry field includes a helpful tooltip to provide additional guidance on the type of data required. The following shows the tooltip for the Amount field.

The screenshot shows a web form field labeled "Amount *". To the right of the input field is a black callout bubble containing the text "Enter the amount you are seeking." A small dollar sign icon is positioned next to the input field.

2.2.6 Responsive Design

Registry Online has been built to work with a number of web browsers and on a variety of devices. If the device you are using has a small screen, each page on the site will respond by limiting the information displayed and hiding some menus. This allows you to see just the information most relevant to your current task.

7 Organisations and Delegates

Registry Online allows you to group a number of users together within a single organisational structure. This allows you to share Final Notice and Claim information across staff within your organisation, and allows you to share Direct Debit information minimising the data to be entered when using the system.

An organisation can include a delegate from both within your organisation, lawyers and clerks within a firm, and outside users such as a Debt Collector working on your behalf.

Delegates can be created with one of the following roles:

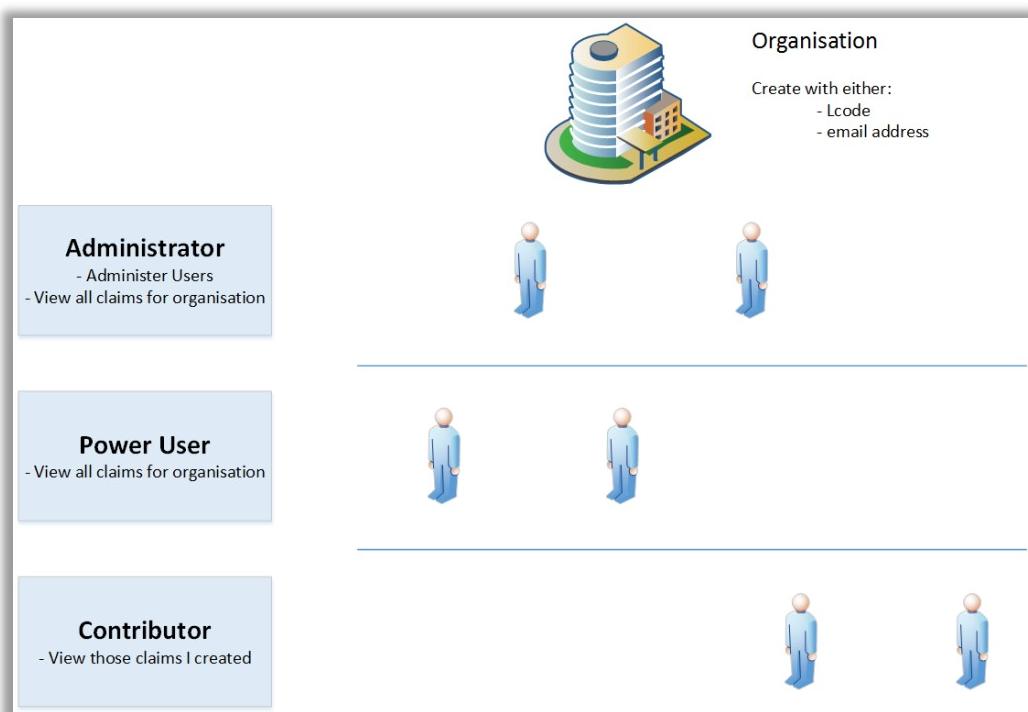

Administrator Can lodge claims on behalf of your organisation, is authorised to pay for claims by your organisations Payment option, can view ALL claims within your organisation and can add or remove delegates for your organisation.

Power User Can lodge claims on behalf of your organisation, is authorised to pay for claims by your organisations Payment option and can view ALL claims within your organisation

Contributor Can lodge claims on behalf of your organisation, is authorised to pay for claims by your organisations Payment option and can ONLY view claims they have created

When adding a delegate to your organisation, you can elect to automatically receive email notifications when the delegate lodges a claim on behalf of your organisation

The following diagram illustrates the Organisation and Delegate structure within Registry Online.

7.1 Creating an Organisation

A Registry Online user can create only one (1) organisation but can be a delegate for multiple organisations.

Before creating an Organisation you must first be registered and logged into the system. Access your profile through the My Profile link. From the Profile page you access your Personal Information, Delegate Information and Organisation information.

The screenshot shows the 'My Profile' page with the following sections:

8 Frequently Asked Questions

What is a Sender?

A sender is “Someone who prepares a Final Notice against someone, informing them of their intention to sue”

The sender is the person(s) that issues a Final Notice for a monetary amount.

What is a Plaintiff?

A plaintiff is “Someone who makes a legal complaint against someone else in court”

The plaintiff is the person that issues the claim for a monetary amount.

What is a Defendant?

A defendant is “A person, company, etc. against who a claim or charge is brought in a court”

The defendant is the person that owes the monetary amount.

What is a Final Notice?

A Final Notice is a warning to a party that a claim is about to be made against them. The Final Notice tells the recipient to pay you the amount you are asking for or you will begin formal legal action to recover the money. A Final Notice can encourage an end to the dispute. The recipient has 21 days from receipt of the Final Notice to respond to you, in which time they may:

- pay the money that you claim you are owed
- negotiate with you to come to an arrangement
- ask to go to mediation (this is only available where Form 1A has been purchased from the Court and served)
- ignore the notice

If the other party replies and agrees to pay the money, or you are able to negotiate an agreement, you do not need to proceed any further in court. If the other party replies but does not want to pay you the money and you wish to pursue the matter, you have the option of:

- proceeding to mediation if both parties agree; or
- lodging a claim.

It is important that you wait 21 days before making a formal claim. If you don’t wait 21 days and your claim is eventually successful, you may not be able to recover your costs from the other party.

What is a Minor Civil Claim?

Making a claim is when you begin formal legal action against the other party. A Minor Civil Claim, includes recovering debts of up to $25,000. These matters are dealt with minimal formality and the parties involved are not entitled to legal representation except in special circumstances. Minor civil claims are lodged on a form 3.

When you lodge a claim, the claim is given an action number. This number helps the court identify your case. If you go into the registry or make a telephone enquiry you will need to quote the action number. Please also note it on any correspondence or documents you lodge with the court in connection with your case.

If you wish to serve the claim yourself you must fill out the form called the "Proof of Service" on the back of one copy of the claim. This copy must be filed with the Court Registry.

A "multilingual notice" Form 17 must be attached to the claim. It is included in case the defendant does not understand English very well.

What is a General Claim?

The Civil (General Claims) Division of the Magistrates Court deals with claims of $25,001 up to $100,000. The types of claims that will be dealt with by this court includes contractual disputes, debt and personal injury. General Claims are lodged on a form 2.

A "multilingual notice" Form 17 must be attached to the claim. It is included in case the defendant does not understand English very well.

What happens next?

Upon serving a claim on the defendant, you must allow 21 days (23 days allowing for postage) for a response before you can commence any further action in the court. There are several courses of action to consider:-

- The defendant pays the amount claimed;
- Both parties agree to settle out of court for some other amount;
- The defendant consents to judgment
- The defendant defends the claim;
- The defendant defends the claim and lodges a counterclaim;
- Defend the claim and lodge a third party claim
- If 21 days is up with no response, you may Register Judgment on the defendant.

What happens if I don't hear back from the person I am suing?

If you do not get a response from the defendant, you may attend the Magistrates Court to register judgment against the defendant. If you do this the defendant will have a judgment recorded against them which may affect their credit rating. Once judgment is registered, you may also wish to take further action. This is called enforcement of the judgment. There may be court fees to be paid in connection with any enforcement activity you take. These fees are added to the judgment debt and are recoverable from the judgment debtor. For more information visit www.courts.sa.gov.au or attend at any Magistrates Court Registry to speak to the friendly staff there about what types of enforcement processes are available for you to consider.

What happens if a defence is lodged by the defendant?

The other party has 21 days in which to file a defence with the Magistrates Court if they feel they do not owe the debt you are seeking or want to contest the matter.

If a defence is lodged by the other party the matter will be referred to either the Registrar of the Court or a Magistrate who will either set the matter down for a directions hearing, a mediation or for expert appraisal. You will be advised by the court of the date and time of the hearing.
